

DECLARATION OF GISELLE MORALES

I, Giselle Morales, declare as follows:

1. I am Senior Director at Precision Discovery in the above- entitled action.
 2. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein, and if called as a witness to testify thereto, I could competently and truthfully do so.
 3. Precision Discovery is a company that provides collections, processing, preservation, and analysis of computers and mobile devices.
 4. I began work for Precision Discovery in September of 2014.
 5. I have been in the field of information technology for 13 years, 9 of which have been in digital forensics and eDiscovery. The discipline of mobile forensics falls under the branch of digital forensics. Over the years, I have utilized numerous industry standard tools to perform mobile device extractions and analysis. Some of the software and hardware tools I have used are: Cellebrite, Oxygen, Paraben, BlackLight, and IEF Axiom.
 6. My responsibilities at Precision Discovery include organizing and overseeing numerous digital forensic and eDiscovery litigation matters. As a part of my role I also perform multiple mobile device extractions and analysis. I contribute to our unit as an experienced consultant and expert in digital forensic casework and eDiscovery litigations.
 7. A mobile forensic extraction is the retrieval of data from a mobile device. There are three methods of extraction: a logical extraction, file system extraction, and a physical extraction. A logical extraction retrieves active data from the device such as passwords, call logs, device details, contacts, SMS, images, audio, application data, and more. However, this is limited to the API (Application Program Interface) which is vendor specific and does not include the recovery of deleted items. A file system extraction contains the active data, but also includes files present in the mobile device's memory, file system, allocated and deleted data stored in the file system structure. There is a higher chance of retrieving deleted items from the file system extraction method than

1 the logical extraction method. The file system extraction is also the most practiced
2 extraction method. Lastly, a physical extraction provides a bit-by-bit copy of the 3 mobile device's data. This is the most comprehensive extraction allowing for the 4 retrieval of live data, and hidden or deleted files. This is a time-consuming method and 5 therefore costly and burdensome.

- 6 8. I completed a file system extraction of Sang Lee's cell phone on August 18, 2016.
7 9. The file system extraction reported Sang Lee's iPhone was an iPhone 3GS. The iPhone
8 3GS (A1303) was put on the market in 2009 and has 8 GB of storage.
9 10. While Sang Lee's file system extraction report indicates the name, date, and time of a 11 text message, the body of many texts were not recoverable.
12 11. Attached hereto as Exhibit "A" is a true and correct copy of the text messages
13 recovered through Sang Lee's file system extraction.
14 12. In an effort to obtain the body of unrecoverable texts, on or about September 7, 2017, I
15 completed a physical extraction of Sang Lee's cell phone. When a text message 16 timeline of the file system and physical extraction were compared, the body of 17 additional text messages were not recoverable.
18 13. In an effort to obtain the body of unrecoverable texts, on or about September 12, 2017,
19 I completed a Cellebrite analysis of Sang Lee's physical cell phone extraction.
20 Cellebrite is considered one of the leaders in mobile phone collection and analysis.
21 Cellebrite is utilized by members of law enforcement, intelligence services, military
22 and the private sector. The body of additional text messages were not recoverable.
23 14. In an effort to obtain the body of unrecoverable texts, on or about September 12, 2017,
24 I completed IEF Axiom analysis of Sang Lee's cell phone. IEF Axiom is another
25 recognized leader in digital forensics and mobile phone collection and analysis. IEF
26 Axiom is used by law enforcement and private sector clients. After reviewing the 27 results, the body of additional text messages were not recoverable.
28 15. In an effort to obtain the body of unrecoverable texts, on or about September 21, 2017,
I exported the SMS database (sms.db) from the physical extraction. I manually

1 reviewed the database using DB Browser for SQLite to determine if the body of 2 additional text messages could be recovered, they could not.

3 16. In an effort to obtain the body of unrecoverable texts, on or about September 21, 2017,
4 I ran the .IMG from the physical extraction through a tool called BlackLight.
5 BlackLight is a leader in acquisition and digital analysis for Android and Windows
6 platforms, but primarily Mac OS and iPhone's iOS. They are also used around the 7 world by law enforcement agencies and corporations. The body of several text
8 messages were found, but not relating to the text messages requested by plaintiffs.

9 17. After extensive testing, the body of a majority of text messages are not recoverable
10 from Sang Lee's iPhone. There is no further testing or testing or analysis that I would 11 recommend.

12 18. While the name, date, and time of a text message is recoverable, the body of a majority
13 of the text messages are not recoverable and are indicated in Exhibit A as "unknown."
14 While we can determine a text message was sent or received at a specific date or time,
15 the data for the body of an unknown text messages is simply not recoverable. I cannot 16 make a determination on whether or not an "unknown" text message was deleted. The 17 items with "unknown" designation have a source of the iPhoneRecentsLog, this 18 database stores communication information (metadata), but does not store the message
19 content or tracks if a message was deleted.

20 19. There was no specific time period where text messages were recoverable and where 21 text messages were unrecoverable. There are many variables to consider why some 22 text messages are recoverable and others are not. The variables include, but not limited
23 to the type of iOS (operating system) of the device, the amount of free storage that is 24 remaining on the device, the amount of user activity on the phone, and the length of 25 time the text message was flagged for deletion.

26 20. When a user selects to delete a message, the text message gets flagged as deleted in the 27 database. Then that space becomes available for new data to be written on. The 28 flagged text message remains on the device until it gets overwritten. Various parts of

1 the message data become overwritten at different times. Once the text message data is 2 overwritten by new data, it is no longer recoverable on the device.

3 21. There were 120 text messages flagged as "deleted," as indicated in Exhibit A.

4 Messages flagged as deleted are marked with a "Yes" in the column indicated as 5 "deleted." If the text does not have a "Yes" in the deleted column, I cannot make a
6 determination about whether or not a text message was deleted. I do not have any 7 evidence to suggest the remaining text messages were deleted. No additional deleted
8 text messages were discovered in my additional testing of the cell phone.

9 22. There is no indication that Sang Lee's iPhone had any wiping software or applications.

10

11 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the 12 foregoing is true and correct and that this declaration was executed on October 4, 2017, at Orange,
13 California.
